

Verbal Jabs Are Thrown At Manufacturers for Holding Out Articles

Producers' 'Strike' Is Suspected so That Profits Will Be Larger in 1946;
Clothing Market Is Low,
Official Declares

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Government officials are confining themselves to verbal jabs on the ticklish question of whether manufacturers are withholding consumer merchandise to benefit from a January 1 tax cut.

The chiefs of at least two agencies have suggested that there has been some withholding and have declined it.

One official who asked that his name not be used said the use of verbal jabs is intended to arouse public indignation to prevent any widespread delivery pending elimination of the excess profits tax at the start of the year.

This official said there is no other step the government could take. There is no way to compel delivery of goods, he added.

The latest dig at producers comes from O.P.A. Administrator Chester Bowles, who said in discussing reasons for the clothing shortage.

"I think it is a most important factor in the tax situation. Companies can look forward to a windfall if they withhold shipments now and release them next year when the excess profits tax is out of the picture."

Bowles added in a statement that "under the circumstances, the public's need for clothes seem to mean very little to some producers."

Earlier this week reconversion boss John W. Snyder said in a speech that "increasing reports are coming to Washington that some firms are holding up the flow of goods for which the markets are so hungry and which people need so badly."

Snyder declared that "damning up the flow of goods is increasing the pressure against controls that protect us from the threat of inflation, which is to no one's interest."

Another official who has concerned himself with the possibility that goods are being withheld is John D. Small, head of the Civilian Production Administration.

His agency has been making an investigation of manufacturers' inventories, but thus far has reported no evidence of any hoarding of merchandise.

Aside from the tax motive, Bowles asserted flatly that processors of cotton fabric for clothing "have been holding up deliveries" while waiting for O.P.A. to decide whether they are entitled to a price increase.

General Motors Proposal Startles Auto Industry

U.S.W. Withholds Any Comment on Plan;
Conference Fails
in Washington

Detroit, Dec. 1 (AP)—The highly competitive automobile industry was startled today by General Motors' proposal to reopen some of its 70-odd strike-bound plants to produce parts and accessories solely for its rivals.

C. E. Wilson, G.M. president, made the unexpected move last night in a letter to the striking C.I.O. Auto Workers Union, which withheld comment pending further study.

Increasing the proposal's importance—and therefore the union's reaction—was the dependence of most other car manufacturers on General Motors for essential parts. An industry spokesman had predicted a virtual shutdown of other automotive firms as a result of the G.M. strike.

The U.A.W.'s reaction was watched closely in light of the union's announced strategy to "blockade" General Motors while assisting other producers in a hasty return to peacetime production.

Whether acceptance of the proposal would weaken its firm strike grip on G.M. to an extent offsetting the advantages it would give competing firms was among the unanswered questions.

Wilson, in a letter to U.A.W. President R. J. Thomas, said he thought it was "very unfair" for the union to single out General Motors for its "labor blockade."

"Nevertheless," he added, "it has always been our principle to take care of our customers if there was any possible way to do it."

G.M., he said, is willing to ship any materials ready for shipment to other manufacturers and to operate all its parts and accessory divisions for the duration of the strike "exclusively on outside work that is on material required by manufacturers other than the General Motors' car, truck and body division."

The management of each division, he explained, would call back to work the men required to do this "with the definite understanding that none of them will be asked to do any work not involved in the production and shipment of material for these outside manufacturers."

Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W. vice president, declined immediate comment but a union spokesman said Reuther told reporters at Washington Thursday he was agreeable to shipment of finished G.M. parts to the Packard Motor Car Co. to prevent a shutdown there.

The proposal came shortly after Reuther and G.M. officials had failed to reach an agreement at a meeting called to discuss the corporation's charge of "illegal picketing" at the struck plants.

The company has refused to resume negotiations as long as supervisory employees are denied entrance and until the union "modifies" its 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Reuther denied the illegal picketing charge and said "we are not going to modify our wage demand as a condition for collective bargaining." He said the union would remain on strike until a settlement acceptable to it is reached.

To Wilson's statement that the U.A.W. might have to settle for a price increase.

Tug, Barge Run Aground on Flats

Barge Floats Free Today,
but Tug Still Is Fast, Is Report

A tug and empty oil barge, beached about three-quarters of a mile above the Esopus light-house, some time Thursday night. This morning it was reported to the sheriff's office, which had been trying to secure aid since Friday afternoon, that the barge was floating free but that the tug still was beached. It was expected that a Cornell tug would be available this morning to assist in pulling the stranded tug free.

The plight of the boats was noted Friday by Mr. Herring of Ulster Park, who reported a boat with its flag upside down and members of the crew trying to attract attention of people on shore.

The sheriff sent deputies to investigate and on their return tried to get someone to go to their assistance, but there were no tugs available at the time.

At the Roundout Lighthouse this morning it was reported that they had not been able to learn the identity of the tug, since, due to the wind, the river was too rough to permit going out in a small boat.

School children will be given an opportunity to take a ride in the amphibious duck, which was due to arrive in Kingston from West Point this forenoon and after traversing the streets be located at the Ulster dock on Abel street about 1 o'clock.

All persons purchasing "E" bonds will have a receipt for the purchase of an "E" bond, will be given a chance to try the riding quality of the "duck."

The duck is being brought here in the interest of the Victory Loan campaign and is scheduled to return to West Point this evening.

Hess to Stand Trial, Admits Faking Case

Nuernberg, Dec. 1 (AP)—The International Military Tribunal ruled today that Rudolf Hess, who confessed he had been faking amnesia, must continue to stand trial with 19 other Nazi leaders accused of war crimes.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, announced that no further mental examinations of Hitler's former deputy were necessary and that he was capable of standing trial.

Hess, who had read novels and paid scant attention to early portions of the trial, created a sensation yesterday when he told the court he had simulated loss of memory for "tactical" reasons and announced he would stand responsible for all of his actions.

The black-haired Hess appeared much relieved by his confession and for the first time since the trial began engaged in lively conversation with other prisoners in the box just before the session opened.

Defense counsel got their first chance at cross-examination when the court recalled Maj.-Gen. Erwin Lahousen, leading German army intelligence officer whose testimony yesterday placed the blame for mass murder of Polish and Russian prisoners directly on Hitler and the high command's chief of staff, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, one of the score of German leaders on trial.

Asked if he and other confessed anti-Hitler military leaders knew the attitude of Franz von Papen, former German diplomat and one of the defendants, toward the Nazi war policies, General Lahousen replied:

"I recall that Canaris said they were negative." He referred to Admiral Wilhelm Canaris, German spy expert who was described as leader of a secret anti-Hitler military clique until his execution after the unsuccessful 1944 bomb plot against the Fuehrer.

Lahousen, Austrian-born aide to Canaris, said that he had heard indirectly that von Papen, like Canaris, had secretly opposed Hitler's war policies.

Questioned by Assistant Prosecutor G. D. Roberts, Lahousen denied knowledge of the murder of 50 R.A.F. fliers when they were recaptured after escaping from a German prison camp.

Field Marshal Keitel's attorney, Otto Nelte, in a long series of questions made little effort to dispute Lahousen's damaging testimony of yesterday concerning the high command's war prisoner policy but sought to gain admissions from the former intelligence officer that he had sabotaged Germany's war effort and was thus a traitor.

To this the Austrian-born general, who entered the German army after Hitler's Anschluss in 1938, replied that he "stood for only what my conscience agreed with."

Nelte unsuccessfully tried to gain an admission from Lahousen that Austrian military leaders favored the Anschluss by which Austria was taken into the Reich.

Labor-Industry Conference Closes On Hopeful Note

John L. Lewis Makes Plea for Unity; Thought Is He Might Go to A.F.L.

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Leaders of the National Labor-Management Conference, admitting their gains had fallen short of their goals, today saw in its completed deliberations some hopeful signs for the future.

Their statements, however, were overshadowed by speculation whether John L. Lewis' closing appeal for unity in the policies and leadership of "The House of Labor" meant he might return to the A.F.L.

The man who split off from A.F.L. to form C.I.O. and then split off from C.I.O. to run his United Mine Workers as an independent union told the labor delegates they had worked at a disadvantage in the face of the management group's "organized, efficient functioning" while the labor groups quarreled.

Lewis declared that labor's division caused a "weakening in strength and in policies, and a failure sometimes to achieve all the objectives it might hope to attain." And during one conference recess the United Mine Workers leader went into an A.F.L. caucus room.

The conference became a labor battleground for a time in its final session late yesterday. A.F.L. and C.I.O. offered rival resolutions calling for genuine collective bargaining, and nationwide wage increases.

While labor disagreed, the management delegation voted against both resolutions and stuck to one of its own saying that wage levels were not the conference's business.

In the end, no resolution was adopted, not even the portions endorsing collective bargaining which all had contained.

Disagrees On 3 Subjects

The conference closed in disagreement on three major subjects, half its agenda. The split recommendations were on collective bargaining and observance of contracts, on management's right to manage, and on jurisdictional disputes.

Its chief accomplishment, in the view of most leaders, was agreement that arbitration on umpire basis, instead of strikes and lockouts, should be the final word in grievances arising under existing labor contracts. This was one of three reports, agreed on.

Another was that the U. S. Conciliation Service should be strengthened, with an advisory committee representing labor and management.

The delegates also approved a permanent panel of top industry and labor leaders, to continue the quest for labor harmony.

The meeting failed to produce any new machinery, however, such as voluntary arbitration or impartial fact-finding, for the peaceful resolution of labor disputes.

Supervisors Declare Surplus Emergency Medical Supplies

Medical supplies, drugs, splints, blood plasma and other supplies which were purchased for emergency use during the war by the Ulster County War Council were declared surplus property Friday evening when the Board of Supervisors authorized the sale of these articles by the county auditor and purchasing agent. The money derived from such sale will be placed in the surplus fund of the county treasurer.

County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran sent a communication to the Board requesting an appropriation of $25,000 for the Bridge fund to reconstruct and maintain bridges of the county. It was moved that this sum be assessed and levied on the county property.

The Committee on Insurance reported claims amounting to $3,840.17 and it was moved that the sum of $4,631.77 be assessed on the county and $1,208.40 on the county outside the city of Kingston to pay such claims.

The contract for printing 700 copies of the Board of Supervisors' proceedings was awarded to The Freeman Publishing Company at $3.23 per page, this being a low bid. It was moved that $1,700.75 be assessed on the county to meet this cost.

It was moved that there be assessed and levied on the county outside the city of Kingston the

More Sugar, Grains Goal of U. S. Farm Secretary for 1946

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—If farmers follow suggestions of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, they will reduce production of livestock products in 1946 but will produce more sugar and grains.

Anderson's tentative 1946 farm production goals would keep total agricultural output near wartime peaks and fill civilian military and export needs, he said.

The goals include 2 per cent less milk, 15 per cent fewer eggs, 17 per cent fewer chickens, 10 per cent fewer turkeys, 3 per cent fewer beef cattle, the same number of lambs and 1 per cent more spring pigs than were produced this year.

The secretary suggested 31 per cent more sugar beets and 8 per cent more sugar cane to help meet a sugar shortage likely to continue into 1947.

Because grain reserves were greatly depleted during the war, he urged the production of 3 per cent more corn, 9 per cent more barley, 3 per cent more grain sorghums, the same acreage of wheat and 22 per cent more rye.

With imported supplies of vegetable oils likely to become more plentiful next year, Anderson asked for a 10 per cent reduction in soybeans and 20 per cent in peanuts. These crops were expanded sharply during the war to supplement supplies of fats and oils which were reduced by Japanese conquest of South Pacific sources.

For all major commodities, the recommended goals would provide, Anderson said, a civilian per capita consumption higher than during the war years.

Other commodities for which smaller production was recommended included:

Potatoes 5 per cent; dry peas, 10; and truck crops, 1 per cent for the fresh market and 4 per cent for processing.

War Department Is To Release Doctors

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—The War Department made ready today to release 15,000 doctors and 5,000 dentists from the service under a reduced discharge score.

The score for these medical officers went down from 80 to 70 points, or three less than the new critical total for other officers which became effective today.

In addition, medical personnel with 42 months of service or who are 48 years old are eligible for discharge now.

Some specialists in scarce categories, however, will be retained.

Four Spend Night In Stalled Auto

Car Skids From Route 9-W
During Storm Thursday;
No Help Given

Four persons, including a woman more than 70 years of age, spent 12 hours in a ditch during the recent storm on highway 9-W between Saugerties and Mount Marion.

The four, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams and Mrs. Martha Lewis, Mrs. Adams' mother all of Mount Marion, and Leo Stauble of Sawkill were returning from Saugerties Thursday night when their car slid off the road into a ditch at 11:30 o'clock.

Efforts to remove the car failed and the four persons stayed in the automobile for a half hour or so without seeing anyone. After that period a highway employee passed and said he would send a plow to release the stranded car. That help did not come.

The terrific northeast wind which accompanied the storm influenced the group to stay in the car, since they feared they might not be able to get out.

Japs Override Ouster for Wartime Members of Diet

Shidehara Suggests Calmness in Government's Probe of Responsibility for War

Tokyo, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Japanese House of Representatives overrode today a demand that wartime leaders of the Diet resign, and Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara urged "calmness" in the government's own investigation of war responsibility.

Shunting aside a Liberal party resolution calling upon Diet members who helped bring on hostilities to resign without delay, the House gave overwhelming approval, Kyodo news agency said, to a Progressive party resolution blasting all who joined "militarists and bureaucrats" in promoting the war. Of Diet members, however, the resolution asked only that they "calmly reflect upon their past responsibility."

Shidehara told the House of Peers that "it is a grave matter to try to judge others. Those who were responsible for the war have committed serious blunders, but in so doing they had no intention of betraying their country. We must deal with the question with tolerance and calmness."

Investigations to be made by the cabinet's war inquiry commission into the causes of war—and of defeat—will clarify the entire situation, Shidehara said.

On another question asked from the floor, as to whether Japan's new democracy shall be modeled after that of Britain or the United States, Shidehara remained silent.

Diet members came up with the idea today of establishing blame not only for those responsible for starting the war—but also those who helped lose it.

In the House of Representatives, Liberal and Progressive party members declared blame should be extended to "those Diet members who failed to cooperate in the war effort during hostilities, thereby causing the nation to be defeated." Kyodo news agency reported.

There was speculation that the whole ticklish matter might lead up to mass resignation of the Diet just before it is scheduled to be dissolved.

Democrat Endorses Plan

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Governor Dewey's request that five military installations in New York city be turned over to the state for conversion to temporary housing sites has the endorsement of Democratic State Chairman Paul E. Hannegan and to four members of the New York Congressional Delegation: Senators Wagner and Mead, and Representatives James A. Roca, Queens, member of the House Military Affairs committee, and James J. Heffernan, Brooklyn.

Committee Orders Up Work Sheets of Those Who Decoded Jap Messages

Fleet Was Watched
Agent Got Word From Togo to Report on
Navy Details

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Pearl Harbor investigators today skirted one of the war's top military secrets—how we broke the Japanese code—in their scrutiny of events preceding the Pacific bastion attack almost four years ago.

In a painstaking inquiry into operation "magic," as the War Department called the code-breaking project, the Senate-House Committee ordered up the work sheets of cryptographers who pieced out the meaning of Japanese military and diplomatic messages.

Committee counsel set about assembling the sheets as the committee took a holiday until Monday.

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) and Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the objective was to find out how much time was consumed in Washington reducing the messages to English and getting the information into the hands of the President, chief of staff, secretary of war and others.

They said they wanted to know whether the job might have been speeded and the field commanders provided with more information.

But William D. Mitchell and Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, made it plain the army and navy don't want to yield the secret of how the job was done.

Cooper and Ferguson told reporters they don't want that information handed, either.

Cooper raised the point in yesterday's hearing that there was nothing in copies of Japanese messages furnished the committee to indicate when they were received in Washington. He noted that more than three weeks elapsed between the date one message was sent by the Japanese and its final decoding and translation in the capital.

He pointed out that a lengthy message sent November 24, 1941, by a Japanese agent in Honolulu to Tokyo about the activity of the American fleet in Pearl Harbor was not translated until December 16.

On December 3, 1941, Foreign Minister Togo sent the Japanese agent in Honolulu a message which said:

"In view of present situation, the presence in port of warships, airplane carriers and cruisers is of utmost importance. Thereafter, to the utmost of your ability, let me know day by day. Wire me in each case whether or not there are any observation balloons above Pearl Harbor or if there are any indications that they will be sent up. Also advise me whether or not the warships are provided with anti-mine nets."

The committee's record bore a note that the message was received in Washington December 23, 16 days after the attack, and translated finally December 30.

Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, who headed the Army's Intelligence Division until January, 1942, testified that many of these messages were intercepted by outlying stations which could only take down the coded Japanese and relay it to Washington for processing.

45 Persons Die In Recent Storm

Disturbance Moves Out
To Sea; Hundreds
Are Homeless

(By The Associated Press)

A two-day storm which resulted in the deaths of at least 45 persons in the northeastern section of the nation moved slowly out to sea today, leaving in its wake snow and ice, disrupted communications and considerable coastal damage from lashing tides and winds of gale force.

Hundreds of families, whose residences had been isolated by huge tides, were temporarily homeless in the six-state New England area.

Coastguardsmen said two small vessels were missing with 11 men. They were the New Bedford Dragger, carrying a crew of 10, which last was heard from east of Nantucket, Mass., and 37-foot cabin cruiser, adrift off Newport, R. I., with its owner, Frank W. Plers.

Marines were cautioned to watch for the Boston lightship, which was torn adrift.

The Weather Bureau said that the dying storm would sweep the Cape Cod area with 60-mile an hour winds although other sections would be free.

The death toll in New England was reported at 22.

As much as 15 inches of snow fell in sections of New England and a 10-inch fall was recorded at Geneva, N. Y. In New York state the storm took a death toll of 17. Main roads were open but in some areas driving was hazardous.

New Jersey authorities, checking up on the aftermath of the storm, said six deaths resulted. Roads were clear.

A new storm was reported brewing in New England with a heavy fall forecast for Tuesday or Wednesday.

76 German Steel Magnates Arrested

Men Represented Industries in Ruhr; Taken in Raids

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Iserlohn, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Seventy-six steel magnates representing Ruhr industries worth billions of dollars were arrested at their homes last night in a series of raids by hundreds of British security police and troops.

The raids began at 11 p. m. and were so thorough that only eight of the original list of 84 marked for arrest were not apprehended. Picking them up was only a question of time.

The industrialists were caught in circumstances ranging from drinking champagne to taking stomach pills before going to bed. A director of the August Thyssen steel works was embarrassed when the British said they found him in a bedroom with the blonde 24-year-old daughter of a baron.

Fritz Baum, manager of the Ruhr Gas Utility in Essen, was drinking champagne with his wife and two friends that police said were taken from Walter Eichorst, another director of the Thyssen works.

Dr. Karl Lipp, head of the purchasing department of the Hoersch Steel Combine of Dortmund, was given permission to play a bedtime lullaby on the violin to his son before being taken away.

Most of the industrialists were in bed and all came quietly, police said. The arresting parties operated on information partly supplied by an American Intelligence detachment at Dusseldorf.

Senior British Intelligence officers said the magnates would be transferred to an internment camp in the British zone where they will be interrogated and masses of documents relating to the Ruhr industries will be studied with the possibility of charging some of the men in custody with war crimes.

Those arrested included such prominent figures in German heavy industry as Heinz Gelm, chairman of the Deutsche Edelstahlwerke, Walther Schering, director of the Reichswerke Stahlwerke, and Friedrich von Beulow and Dr. Edward Hudremont, directors of Krupp.

Others rounded up included Rudolf Siederling, managing director of Otto Wolf K.G.; Arthur Hennecke, director of Mitteldeutsche Stahlwerke and of Friedrich Flick K.G., and Dr. Guenther Henle, director of Klocknerwerke A.G.

A senior British officer described the raids as part of the application by the Allied Control Commission of the policy of eradicating German militarism and Nazism.

Public Invited To Hear Lecture On Soviet Union

Since Russia is one of America's allies and because the average person fears Russia, the Business and Professional Girls Club of the Y. W. C. A. has arranged a public meeting for Wednesday at 8 p. m., when Miss Rose Maurer will discuss the "Soviet Design for Living." The lecture is open to the public without charge and the club hopes everyone interested in getting along with America's ally for the sake of world peace, will attend.

Miss Maurer has not only widely studied and read on the subject but has spent two years in the Soviet Union at a most crucial time in its history, from 1935-37 when, among other events, the new efficiency movement in industry was started, the treason trials were held and the new Soviet constitutions were adopted. Miss Maurer readily understands the Russian language, although she is a native New Yorker, so she was able to move throughout Russia, visiting institutions, interviewing officials, questioning and arguing—all without the barrier and formality of an interpreter and special appointments.

Miss Maurer's special study has been on the progress and education of the "new woman" of Russia. In this country she has not only written many articles for magazines and papers but has edited the weekly bulletin, "Russia at War," and written articles on health care, education, religious freedom, civilian defense, American-Soviet relations and other topics of current and background interest. She has also been editor of the magazine, "The American Review on the Soviet Union." She has recently been invited to contribute the social institutions section to the 1945 volume of the Encyclopedia Americana on Russia.

STILL NO VACANCIES

Often it takes an isolated personal drama to lay bare a wide and fundamental problem. Such was the case when a returned navy veteran became school superintendent in Tuckahoe, N. Y. Unable to find a home for himself, wife and baby, he moved his family into the domestic science rooms of the school building. The horrified school board evicted them promptly. The story was put on every press wire. The school man and his family became a symbol of the 2,000,000 families, mostly those of veterans, who, according to the National Housing Agency, will look in vain for houses during the next twelve months. There are no signs of an early clearing of the housing shortage.

The American people must do more than talk about this. So far that is about all that has been accomplished except in some quarters like Newark, N. J., where 300 temporary shelters are about to be built against 7,000 that are needed. A few cities have appointed emergency housing committees. The country has a Federal Housing Commission. Also there is a Congress. It's time both were heard from with concrete and immediate plans. Even more important, individual communities must face the matter as it relates to their areas. Local effort can do a great deal without waiting for Washington.

MAKING THEM UNDERSTAND

Americans naturally like to feel that, along with our fighting and winning these two terrible wars, we have gained something permanent and worth while for the world in general. We look naturally into the principles of a situation, along with its outward accomplishments. We want to know particularly whether we have taught the militaristic Germans and Japanese such a lesson that they will be less likely to force us into such conflicts again.

It is disheartening, therefore, to find expert American observers reporting that apparently the Germans and Japanese are not sorry for their crimes, but only sorry that they have lost, and so ethically they are no better off than they were before.

If this is really true, the facts should be brought home to all Japanese and Germans, and emphasized and drilled into their souls, until they absorb these fundamental truths as far as they are capable of ethical understanding. Otherwise life with them in the future will be as perilous and futile as it has been in the past.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas in 1945 should be the happiest in many years. It accompanies the return of long-absent members of so many families, and the ending of anxiety for those who have not yet obtained their discharge.

As if to show the fundamental unimportance of material things, this year's Christmas may be the scarcest in availability of presents that the country has seen. While cigarettes are back, anything made of metal, to take but one example, is unbelievably scarce, and the lady of your heart can have no immediate hope of nylons. No one cares, however, with the one fear removed which for years swallowed up all other fears. Christmas is coming, and rejoicing is in the air. Will true peace and sincere good-will come with it?

NEW LIFE OF LINCOLN

The unbelievable has happened: something different in the way of a life of Lincoln. These annual or even semi-annual events have been attempted by all sorts of people, lawyers, newspaper men, clergymen and poets, but until 1945 no professional historian has tried his hand. Now J. G. Randall, who teaches history at the University of Illinois, has published a two-volume work "Lincoln the President."

Randall's effort has much new information about the presidential period. At first glance he appears to paint a less vivid picture than does a poet like Sandburg. His excuse might be the difficulty of making a historic figure come to life on the printed page. All kinds of writers, for example, have

'These Days'

GLORY BE!

The United States of America is at last beginning to realize that it has been on one long, costly binge. Cirrhosis of the liver is not diagnosed, nor arteriosclerosis—just a very unpleasant hangover, with some but not enough repentance. The hand is shaky; the pocket is empty; but no vital spot has been affected irredeemably. A physical, mental and spiritual purge is indicated.

And the resignation of Ambassador Pat Hurley is one indication that the purge is having some effect, for Hurley resigned in anger after he had agreed forthwith to return to China, not because he had quarreled with the President or the Secretary of State, which he had not done, nor because he opposed their policies, which he did not, but because he was sick and tired of the sniping tactics of inexperienced and fresh kids who play at being men by turning the senior department of our government into an anarchistic kindergarten. Maybe that is a product of progressive education, but it is not what the American taxpayer pays his money for.

The conduct of the foreign policy is constitutionally the function of the President through the Secretary of State. It is not the right of every hired man in the State Department to operate on his own, leaking like an old tent to Left-Wing newspapers or even to Left-Wing congressmen. I wonder whether the porters and washerwomen of the State Department have organized a leaking clique.

So this Pearl Harbor investigation in Congress is producing daily the evidence that apparently nobody knew what he should have known because the Big Boss never let his right hand know what his left hand was about. That lack of coordination produced an administrative D. T. which resulted in Pearl Harbor. Slowly, reluctantly, with anger in many souls and obvious contrition, the truth is forthcoming. And as the country becomes more annoyed from day to day at the sort of college fraternity secrecy practiced by our great minds, imperiling the lives of our children, more of those who are loyal to each other will reach the sober moral conclusion that their loyalty should have been, and must now be, to the people of the United States. They will ultimately tell the whole truth.

So we turn to Mr. Harry Bridges and Mr. Joe Curran, two gentlemen of the unions, who are now determining all on their own how the shipping of the United States is to be used. The Constitution provides that the Congress is to make the laws of this country, but for more than a decade these gentlemen have been above the law, operating feudal kingdoms of their own, subject to no police powers of the state. They have functioned at will and have been backed by a vote-counting administration. The question is: Has the government in Washington reached a state of sufficient sobriety to discover, for itself, what the consequences are, by relationship to its authority, in the case issued by Messrs. Bridges and Curran, that the function, use and destination of all American shipping is their proper domain?

It is the application of the Petrillo dogma to shipping, for Petrillo has established it as an indisputable fact that he alone possesses the authority to determine when and how Americans are to listen to or to provide what kind of music. Now the Bridges-Curran mandate applies this pattern of decision to shipping. Perhaps if we go along with this concept of the American polity, we shall not be a union of 48 states but a state of 48 unions, each functioning under a lord who shall, on his own and despotically, decide for us all that there is to decide.

Glory Be! It won't happen. The American people is waking up from its fog. It is demanding to know who put that Mickey Finn in its drinking water. And it will know, no matter who tries to poison the wells of human knowledge by walling: It's all water over the dam. That morbid soul of the contrite soul lacks in decency and sufficiency. We demand a full confession in open meeting, which the experts in Alcoholics Anonymous say is what must precede a permanent cure. (Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

 SKIN AILMENTS

It is interesting to see how annoyed or amused patients become when they are told that their skin ailment is caused by their emotions, yet they admit that they blush or turn pale under their emotions.

It is of course true that a patient with a skin ailment, like acne or eczema, may develop an inferiority complex or become depressed so that the skin ailment is causing the emotional disturbances. The emotional disturbances can cause the skin ailment; it is equally true, that if not wholly the cause, it is an important factor in the cause.

That there are individuals, sensitive or allergic to various substances who develop skin ailments—hives, eczema—when under emotional strain has been definitely established.

That heat regulation and the sweat mechanism of the body are related to emotional disturbances in causing skin ailments has been stated by research workers. In the Canadian Medical Association Journal Dr. Frederick Katz, Montreal, reports the findings of Drs. Ziegler and Cash who after an intensive study of skin temperatures among a large number of mental patients observed a wide variety in reaction and concluded that the heat control of the body is centered in a certain part of the brain. The influence of sweat on the skin, on the alkalinity of the skin, its acid covering, and its defense mechanism against various substances or organisms is of the greatest importance.

Another research worker, Dr. Roperson, has pointed out the excessive perspiration of the palms when the individual is emotionally disturbed. Every dermatologist has seen the epidemics of fungal (yeast) organisms, infections, and so called eczema in medical students during examination time. A number of medical students once blamed a swimming pool for an epidemic of ringworm in grain which was undoubtedly not caused by water, but by the examinations they were writing.

Neurosis—believing you have a physical ailment when none exists—is becoming increasingly common. Send today for Dr. Barton's informative booklet on the subject entitled "Neurosis." "At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

For years one of the leading music dealers in Kingston was Weston H. Rider with his store at 304 Wall street. On March 24, 1922, he sold the three-story building to Stephen Larios of Plattburgh and John Stanapakos of Newark, N. J. They took possession on May 1, of that year.

The former music store was remodeled into a modern restaurant and was opened by the new owners under the name of The Liberty. They operated the restaurant for a number of years, and as I ate there a number of times when in the uptown business district, I remember that they served excellent meals at reasonable prices.

The comedy drama "Sunshine and Shadows" was given by a group of members of the First Presbyterian Church in 1922, with such success that it was repeated several times in various other churches in the city and vicinity. On March 28, of that year the play was presented in the lecture room of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Among those in the cast were Ralph A. Griffin, Fromer Woodard, John Brown, William Murray, Jr., Robert Dennis, Archie Rutherford, Mrs. William Longyear, Mary Taylor, Mrs. Archie Rutherford and Mrs. Fromer Woodard.

The cast was coached by T. I. Richards, widely known local amateur minstrel man and entertainer. James Norton died on March 22, 1922, in his home on Pine street, aged 87 years. He was born in Old Hurley in 1835, and came to Kingston when a boy. For a short time he was employed in the village of Rondout. Then he became a stage driver on the Kingston-Ellettsville stage, and later for a number of years was coachman for Gen. George H. Sharpe.

Mr. Norton was also employed as stage driver on the old stage coach line that connected the two villages of Rondout and Kingston. When the Kingston and Rondout horse railway was built he became one of the drivers of the horse cars, and continued to drive the horse cars until the road was electrified, when he became a conductor on the Broadway Division of the trolley road.

In later years he served as a court officer at both the Supreme and County Court trials at the court house. Jimmy, as he was familiarly known, had a keen memory of the old days and many an interesting story he could tell of the days of the stage coach line as well as of the years when the horse cars ran on Broadway, then known as Union avenue.

The first radio club in Kingston was organized on April 3, 1922, by members of Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias. The new club was organized with 100 members. Harold Sharot was elected president; Jay W. Rifenbary, vice president; Walter T. Elston, secretary and treasurer, and William H. Stork, assistant secretary and treasurer.

In announcing the formation of the club it was stated the members planned to invest $500 in radio equipment.

For a number of years the old City Home employed Daniel Smith to operate the City Home farm on Flatbush avenue. Mr. Smith served as farmer for 26 years, retiring in April, 1922, owing to ill health.

The City Home Board meeting that month announced the appointment of Charles A. Webster to fill the post left vacant by Mr. Smith's resignation.

For years the City Home farm produced a larger part of the produce served on the table in the City Home, and the farm always showed a profit each season.

Work of Labor-Management Conference Need Not Be Considered Lost

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 1.—While it may prove stimulating to Congress for observers to refer to the labor-management conference as a failure, the fact is that the whole problem is far too complicated to be dealt with in any one session of a few weeks anyway. Provision has been made for a semi-permanent committee to carry on discussions.

The work that has been done in selecting constituent personnel for the conference will not be lost if the groups can be convened at any time that their interim committee reports progress. Undoubtedly the pressure for concrete settlements of issues enveloping the pending strikes had much to do with the prevention of full agreement at this time.

Curiously enough, both sides recognize that the public interest demands adoption of certain basic principles but when it comes to interpreting them or even writing them out, suspicion emerges and there is a pressure from factions within labor or management, as the case may be, to insist on a particular wording. Disagreement, of course, ensues.

The basic principles that both sides privately accept are that strikes and other work stoppages do not contribute to the public interest, that collective bargaining with bona fide workers' organizations needs definition and certainly requires good faith in its conduct on both sides, and that once contracts are made, some means of fulfilling the obligations contained therein and settling grievances or differences of interpretation must be found.

Congress will have before it all the records of the labor-management conference and a summary of all the discussions. It will be a starting point for the drafting of legislation. For one certain result of the labor-management conference is the writing of new laws touching on many of the topics covered in the meeting.

Thus, for instance, everybody agrees that mediation and conciliation machinery must be strengthened. This requires appropriations by Congress and a spelling out of functions.

Inasmuch as the Smith-Connally Act has to be repealed, labor legislation must come out of committees on both sides of the capital. This is a significant opportunity for those who want to offer amendments to existing statutes or to add new legislation.

Ever since 1935, when the Wagner Labor Relations Act was passed, all efforts to clarify some of its ambiguous clauses have been squelched in committee. Usually the influence and pro-labor members of the committees dealing with labor legislation.

The House of Representatives is in a mood to pass what might be termed by labor unions as drastic legislation. The Senate is less inclined to go along but ultimately a compromise between Senate and House views will be made. The labor-management conference tends to strengthen the hand of the House majority and possibly to add some votes in the Senate.

For the main argument that will be heard is that labor and management men cannot or will not write a code for themselves, nor are they in a position to enforce such a code even if agreed upon by delegates representing huge membership organizations of labor and management. Hence in such circumstances legislation becomes inevitable in order to protect the public interest.

The recess of the labor-management conference for a long interval will place upon both sides a responsibility to tackle concrete controversies. When federal mediation does clear up some of the major strikes, as seems likely, during the next few weeks, the very demonstration of how federal mediation and conciliation have been utilized will afford Congress a reason for including in existing laws some provision for mediation and possibly some restriction to the use of strikes or lockouts while mediation processes are being utilized.

It is a superficial characterization to say the labor-management conference has failed. The discussions will continue intermittently both by its semi-permanent committee and by congressional committees. Both labor and management will merely transfer their place to the committee rooms of Congress. For he problem will have to be tackled if reconvened as to proceed at maximum speed.

An impressive ceremony for the burning of the mortgage has been arranged, in which each of the organizations of the church is to be represented. The church hall was built in 1924 under the leadership of the Rev. Wilbur Stowe. It was a real venture of faith and entailed great sacrifice and effort on the part of those who undertook it. The need for another building, however, was great when it was constructed; for the rapidly expanding congregation needed larger facilities to carry on its program. Today the hall is in greater use than ever as the various church groups assemble there for activities. During the years the Sunday school has grown to the size of the hall, and every bit of space is utilized on a Sunday morning. The debt, incurred when the hall was constructed has been gradually eliminated, and this year the congregation held a special drive to pay off the balance. The service this Sunday will be a day of real joy for members and friends of the Reformed Church of the Comforter.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Double Duty

Raton, N. M., Dec. 1 (AP)—Those attending an Elks memorial service in Santa Fe today are going to hear a 23-year-old speech. Asked on short notice to make the address, Daniel K. Sadler, New Mexico Supreme Court Justice, recalled he gave a similar address in his home town of Raton on the same date in 1922.

By telephone Sadler arranged to have the 1922 text copied from newspaper files.

Big Game

Sand Springs, Okla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Steve Garoutte's young bird dog came down on a point and the hunter prepared to fire at rising quail.

Instead of birds, however, a 28-pound bobcat dashed from the brush and Garoutte's partner, Leroy Everett, brought it down with a blast from his shotgun.

Dog Gone

Long Beach, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)—Vicky was back aboard the Iowa today, just another sailor trapped by the lush living of a landlubber.

What happened was told by Mrs. C. J. King, as she turned the trim little terrier over to the shore patrol. She said she invited him to free chow and he just stayed.

There was talk aboard of a court martial. But that might rob Vicky of his Good Conduct medal. And his record is good, up to now. Vicky has eight battle stars on his campaign ribbons plus a Presidential citation, conferred by the late President Roosevelt.

Strategy

Harrisburg, Ill., Dec. 1 (AP)—Rural postman Bill Land suspects deer in this vicinity are getting smarter.

The postman found a six-point buck with a herd of grazing sheep in a barn lot—where the hunters didn't think to look.

Hard Coal Prices Increase to Give Operators Profit

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prices for hard coal are up 5 to 65 cents a ton, depending upon grade and size.

The increase is effective today.

but O.P.A. said some householders may not begin paying the higher prices until next week when dealers have received new schedules from the mines.

The price boost was ordered to restore mine operators' profit margins to the equivalent of what they were in 1942—19.9 cents a ton. This is the minimum fixed by the government under price control.

The overall average price increase amounts to 19 cents a ton. For the nine largest Pennsylvania anthracite producers the boost averages 11.6 cents, while for most other companies it averages 32 cents.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Operators of New York state's winter sports resorts are prepared for a record season.

The state Commerce Department reported yesterday that "at least 50 per cent" more ski lodges and resort hotels will be open this season than last. Reservations already have been received from such distant points as the South Pacific.

The heavy snows of the past three days have brought favorable skiing conditions to resort areas. Only Saratoga Springs, Lake Placid and Old Forge were ready to open with the coming snow; but managers of other resorts announced they would be ready to accommodate skiers by December 15.

Skiing, a popular sport in New York for the past decade, accounts for a substantial portion of the state's $600,000,000 resort business, Commerce Department figures show.

Among the major improvements listed for this season are a new trail on the Whiteface Mountain range at Lake Placid, a large, new private development at Boonville and new trails in the Bear Mountain area, mecca for thousands of New York city ski fans.

New England's two day north-easter blew good skiing conditions into the area, particularly in the northern sections. Caught unawares by the comparatively early heavy snowfall, most of the skiing centers had not prepared their full-scale tow, but they planned to operate rope pulls over the week-end.

Execution Is Fixed
London, Nov. 30 (AP)—The execution of John Amery, sentenced to death at Old Bailey Court after he pleaded guilty to high treason this week, has been provisionally fixed for December 19. Amery, son of Leopold Amery, secretary of state for India in Winston Churchill's cabinet, was a Nazi propaganda broadcaster.

All the state's main roads were open, the state police reported, but work of clearing snow blocks from secondary roads in western and northern New York continued. A New York Central Railroad official said trains were again running on schedule.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Clifford J. Fletcher last night asked all drivers to avoid quick stops as a precautionary measure against accidents. He suggested "stop those skids before they start" as the season's safety slogan.

Wild Dog Packs Attack Deer; No Wolves in State

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Packs of savage, homeless dogs that track deer through waist-deep snow, slash at them until they weaken from pain and loss of blood and then plunge in for the kill, are expected by the state Conservation Department to cause more damage to the state's wildlife this winter than ever before.

"There has been a constant increase in the number of these packs reported," a department spokesman said today. "If the snow is deep this winter, the situation will be especially serious."

The spokesman said that the only apparent reason for the increased number of packs was that more persons who owned dogs allowed them to "run wild" and failed to secure licenses. He added that the increase had been gradual over the past few years.

The department currently is studying several possible courses of action to eradicate the packs and safeguard game. Details will be announced as the plans are developed.

The department said that in addition to the killing of deer and other game animals, the dog packs frequently attack domestic stock, particularly sheep.

Reports of wolf packs in the state are erroneous, the department said. The animals were termed "rare" in New York.

Giovannelli Loses, To Box Pellone Again

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Youthful lightweight Tony Pellone of New York and Patsy Giovannelli of Brooklyn, who fought a sizzling 10-rounder at St. Nick's Arena last night with the decision going to Pellone, were rematched immediately for a repeat performance at Madison Square Garden Monday, December 27.

Giovannelli, making his first comeback effort since his release from the Army, had a slight edge in the first few rounds but tired to lose a close decision.

At the end of the Indian War in 1645 there were but 100 persons left in Manhattan and 1,500 in the province.

DICKEY CONTEMPLATES RETURN TO BALL

At a meeting of the Kingston High School football squad this week, co-captains for the 1946 season were elected—Bob Wisneski, left, and Arnold Bellini. A 175-pounder, Wisneski, who played tackle for the Maroon, received nine votes to make the All DUSO first team this year in recognition for the way he ripped through opposing lines. Bellini, who received honorable mention in DUSO voting, led the K.H.S. scoring attack during the recent season. He played fullback.

L.L. William M. Dickey (above), soon to be discharged from the Navy, says that at 38 he's too old for any more catching but he would like to stay in baseball if he can find the "right spot." He put 16 years in behind the plate for the N. Y. Yankees. Dickey is shown at the Navy base near Memphis, Tenn. (AP Wirephoto).

Regular 1945 Grid Season Winds Up in Today's Game

Ex-Navy Golfer Heads Field in Orlando Tourney

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Young Herman Kelsier, the Akron, Ohio, marksman, led a field of 65 professionals and four amateurs into the third round today of the $10,000 Orlando Open golf tournament.

Kelsier, released from the Navy two months ago after three years service, carded a 35-34 on the second 18-hole round over the Dubard Country Club course yesterday for a half-way mark of 136.

Shouldered out of first place was pro Les Kennedy of Pawtucket, R. I., who turned in a near-record 18 hole score of 63—eight under par—for the opening round.

The four amateurs still plugging away were Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., Lieut. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Gene Dahlbender, Jr., of Atlanta and Liner Priesskorn of Nashville, Tenn. They remained in the contest after the original field had been cut from 169 at the half-way mark.

Tournament officials, ruling at the end of the 36 holes, set a score of 147 as high for professionals and a card of 151 high for amateurs to qualify for the semifinals.

Trailing Kelsier by only one stroke at the end of the second round were Sammy Snead, the Hot Springs, Va., ace, and Ky Lafoon of Chicago, both with cards of 137.

Dempsey Discusses New Sports Arena To Promote Events

Ottawa, Nov. 30 (AP)—Jack Dempsey said in an interview last night that an association which he heads is seeking the title franchise of the Brooklyn Americans in the National Hockey League and also plans to build a new arena in New York.

Here to referee a wrestling bout, Dempsey said a recent meeting in Montreal with Red Dutton, president of the N. H. L., concerned the Americans franchise but didn't get past the "discussion stage." He indicated he was seeking Dutton as an associate in the hockey set-up.

Should the Americans' franchise be obtained there would be no attempt to operate the club in Brooklyn. Instead "we plan building a new arena in New York and would stage hockey games, boxing bouts and other sports," Dempsey disclosed.

Ott Has 3 Worries To Settle at Parley

New Orleans, Dec. 1 (AP)—Manager Melvin Ott of the New York Giants was en route today to the minor leagues' meeting in Columbus, Ohio, with three prime worries: 1, pitchers; 2, catchers; 3, Cardinals.

He plans to do what he can about the first two problems at Columbus and at the subsequent

Army-Navy Clash Tops Afternoon Schedule; Prospective Bowl Teams in Action

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—The regular football campaign closes out with a sock finish today as all-conquering Army clashes with unbeaten Navy for the national championship and the teams still in the running for remaining bowl vacancies got a last chance to show their wares.

About 102,000 fans including President Truman will jam Philadelphia's municipal stadium to see whether Navy's popped-up gridiron can stop the colossal grid machine put together by Coach Earl Blaik at West Point. The Cadets' with eight straight victories this year and 17 in a row to their credit over the last two seasons, have been made 27-point favorites to turn this traditional battle into a runaway.

Expect 100,000.

Another huge throng of about 100,000 spectators was looked for in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum where the Trojans of Southern California will attempt to knock U.C.L.A.'s Bruins out of the way and clinch the Rose Bowl spot against Alabama.

The Trojans need only a tie or a victory to win the Pacific Coast Conference's championship and the automatic nomination for the Pasadena classic. Should the Bruins upset the dope, however, the bid will go to Washington State's Cougars unless U.C.L.A.'s triumph is overwhelming. In that event the conference's nominating committee might be inclined to award the prize to the Uclans because of their prestige-winning decision over St. Mary's.

Still in the Battle

A number of southern teams including Tennessee, Georgia, Louisiana State and Miami still were in the battle to grab the open Orange Bowl spot against Holy Cross. The home town Miami Hurricanes boosted their stock for the opening by trampling Auburn 33-7 last night.

Georgia engages Georgia Tech in an Atlanta contest that may lure 32,000 fans while Louisiana State will tangle with Tulane in the battle of the bayous before some 50,000 customers in New Orleans. Once-beaten Tennessee will be out to put the crusher on Vanderbilt in Knoxville.

Title Clash

In the east Yale and Harvard will meet for the first time since 1912 and about 50,000 spectators probably will be in the Yale Bowl for this "Big Three" title bout.

With Texas already in possession of the Southwest Conference title following their Thursday conquest of Texas A. M., only second place will be at stake in the Baylor-Rice, Southern Methodist-Texas Christian encounters.

Notre Dame began only by Army and tied by Navy, engages Great Lakes in the sole important midwestern match. The Pacific Coast's program is rounded out by St. Mary's Pre-Flight vs. California and Oregon vs. Oregon State.

major leagues' meeting in Chicago. His success largely will determine if he can do anything about the third vexation.

Undefended Divorces Are Scored by Judge

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Federal action is needed "to check the growing menace of the undefended divorce," declares Judge George W. Smyth of the Westchester County Children's Court.
Smyth yesterday told the 23rd annual conference of the New York State Association of Children's Court Judges that "easy-to-get, undefended" divorces in Nevada, Arkansas and Florida were "sordid traffic" and "a shameful blot upon the American scene."
Undefended divorces, he said, are "good business for the state in which they are going on" and "a serious, growing menace to the homes and children of America."
Asserting that the undefended divorce industry has become so great it transcends the power of any state to protect its citizens, Smyth said:
"Federal action is required to curb unconscionable state laws and procedures which outrage decency."
At the close of the association's three-day conference, Judge Victor B. Wylegala, Buffalo, was succeeded as president by Judge John B. Morin, Louisville. Other officers elected were: Judge Clarence F. Giles, Watertown, vice president, and Judge Morse Ames, Cortland, secretary-treasurer.

Would Build Garages
Kansas City, Dec. 1 (AP)—Kansas City civic leaders are considering plans for the construction of two-car garages as the possible answer to the city's critical housing shortage. The garages, as outlined in the proposal submitted to labor and construction representatives by Mayor John P. Gage yesterday, would be used as human dwellings until permanent homes could be built.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP World Traveler)

London, Dec. 1.—This man and wife team of globe-trotting columnists has swallowed so much fog since arrival in England that we've got to get some of it off our aching chests.
Winter in England spells fog—and I mean fog. It is a cold, acid blanket which grips and grips. It tortures your bones, gets in your eyes and throat, and makes your stomach ache. And when it really gets on a rampage it stops virtually all out-of-doors activity. November is a particularly bad month and this year it produced more fog than any November for several seasons.
Now we really aren't raising the subject of fog because of personal discomfort, because we are doing me to speak for myself. But Britain as a whole has been suffering from the bleak cold.

Despite the fact that this is one of the great coal producing countries, there is a terrible shortage of this fuel because the demands of war have made it impossible to find anything like enough miners. A working woman told me yesterday that she hadn't been able to buy any coal for her since last May. That perhaps is an extreme case, but millions are short of fuel.

This means that England is facing a grim winter which will produce wide-spread distress. The suffering from lack of coal in Britain, however, will be multiplied on the continent, for in most of the war-torn areas there is little or no fuel.

at all. Many people, especially old folk and children, will die of cold before spring.

But to return to our muttons, these English fogs are among the marvels of the universe. I've known my London fogs these 30 years. A real pea soup fog is never to be forgotten. They don't get so many of these fellows nowadays, so the weather man tells me, because of smoke abatement and better drainage of London areas but he admits there is no indication that ordinary fogs are lessening.

When a pea souper comes—for come they still do—it ties this city in a knot. I've seen them so bad when I used to live here that the only people who would move about without getting lost were blind folk who had learned the uncanny art of depending on other senses than sight.

All fogs are held on clothing, as Mrs. Mac has discovered. She didn't say "ha!" but I dare say that is what she has in mind, for a lot of wearing apparel is ruined by the soot with which the damp air is loaded. She has found, too, that it takes anything up to five weeks to get dry cleaning done, and that the cleaning frequently ruins shirts and the like. You are warned to cut all buttons off clothing and to remove all zippers before sending things to the cleaners, because the cleaning fluids ruin metal or button material.

However, please don't overlook the real point of this column, buttons and zippers can be replaced in time, but you can't replace the lives or the health which will be lost in the coming bitter months in Europe.

Russians Begin Tehran Evacuation

Russia Denies Taking Intervention Action

Tehran, Iran, Nov. 30 (Delayed) (AP)—The Russians began carrying out a surprise evacuation of Tehran last night.

The railway station, communications centers and private billets including the military headquarters were completely evacuated.

The Governor of Azerbaijan, appointed recently by the central Iranian government, arrived in the provincial capital of Tabriz today from Tehran in a plane put at his disposal by Soviet authorities.

Meanwhile, the Iranian foreign ministry said the Russian note refusing passage of Iranian troops into trouble spots of northwestern Iran asserted that "fighting and bloodshed would break out" if Iranian troops entered the territory and that the Soviet government would be forced to bring in additional soldiers.

The note denied that Russia was intervening in the political or economic affairs of Iran and termed untrue allegations that the Soviet government had given help to Kurds of that region.

De Gasperi Gets Bid
Rome, Dec. 1 (AP)—Foreign Minister Alcide De Gasperi was invited by Crown Prince Umberto today to attempt to form an Italian government to succeed that of Ferruccio Parri, whose six-party coalition regime fell last week.

A Royal communique said De Gasperi told Umberto there was a possibility of forming a government based on the six parties which make up the national committee of liberation and "other elements."
In peacetime, Borneo, contributed about one-twelfth of the world's total output of crude rubber.

something less than a 10 per cent raise, he replied that the G.M. executive "is kidding himself" if he thinks that.

H. W. Anderson, G.M. vice president, will confer with Chief Federal Conciliator Edgar L. Warren and possibly Secretary of Labor Schwelvenbach at Washington today Tuesday, Warren said he would attempt to get wage negotiations resumed promptly.

The union, meanwhile, invited a group of nationally known educators, churchmen, editors, businessmen and farm leaders to serve as a "citizens' committee" in the dispute.

Reuther said the meeting would be held because the press and radio had been barred, at General Motors' request, from negotiating sessions, and to show publicly "how far the union has gone in trying to obtain a fair settlement of the case."
